

BEFORE ROE THERE WAS ... CHOICES WOMEN'S MEDICAL CENTER

Message from Merle Hoffman

Choices Women's Medical Center has always welcomed women from other cities or states. In fact, our very first patient was from New Jersey, a state where abortion was not yet legal at that time, unlike New York. Today, our Out-of-Town Program is more important than ever with new and revived threats to abortion access in states across the country and to the Roe v. Wade decision itself which legalized abortion nationwide.

With the horrific image of “slave states” and “free states” hovering over the patchwork reality of abortion access since Trump's election – and even being touted by Trump himself when he said, discussing the possibility of Roe being overturned, that women can just “go to another state” – Choices renews its commitment to politically fighting against further attacks on abortion while keeping its doors open to women from across the U.S. and other countries.

Here is some information about our Out-of-Town Program – I encourage you to spread the word to your friends and relatives who live outside New York State and who may need our services.

ABORTION RIGHTS RESTRICTIONS IN THE UNITED STATES

- KEY
- No more than one abortion restriction
 - Two or three abortion restrictions
 - Four or five abortion restrictions
 - Six or more abortion restrictions

Choices Women's Medical Center has welcomed women from all over the US. Our very first patient was from New Jersey because abortion was illegal in that state. Choices' mission and commitment to its patients remains the same today, crossing all geographical and political boundaries.

For over 46 years, Choices Women's Medical Center has been committed to helping women make the best decisions for themselves and their families. Recent legislation in certain states has made it difficult and sometimes impossible for women to access vital abortion services close to home.

Choices is here to help . . . Our specialty is YOU!

New York State has few restrictions, and Choices is one of the few women's clinics that offer abortions up to 24 weeks of pregnancy. There are no waiting periods, and parental consent or notification is never required for women of any age. All services are confidential.

with funding agencies. Choices also assists in coordinating transportation and accommodations if needed.

Choices has obtained the highest accreditation from the Accreditation Association for Ambulatory Care, and meets all Department of Health Regulations.
